DETAILED ACTION

1. The suspension of action has been terminated.

Claims 1 and 4-8 are pending and under examination in the instant office action.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1 and 4-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Isfort et al. (US Patent Application Publication No. 2003/0165807, filed 03/06/2001). Applicant is reminded that the instant specification is granted priority under 35 U.S.C. 119(e) only to the provisional application 60/273,969 (03/07/2001), see reasons of record in section 2 of Paper No. 8.

Claim 1 is directed to an isolated DNA encoding urocortin II protein of amino acid sequence of SEQ ID NO: 11. Document of Isfort et al. discloses a sequence of urocortin II of SEQ ID NO: 43 (page 4, Table I), which is 100% identical to the amino acid sequence of SEQ ID NO: 11 of the instant invention, see a copy of the sequence alignment attached to the instant office action. Claims 4-7 are directed to a vector comprising the DNA of urocortin II and a host cell. As evidenced by the information in column 3 of Table I on page 4 of Isfort et al. document, urocortin II of Isfort et al. was cloned from Mus Musculus, which meets the limitations of the instant claims 4-7.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

4. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

5. Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Isfort et al. (US Patent Application Publication No. 2003/0165807, filed 03/06/2001).

Art Unit: 1646

Claim 8 is directed to a host cell, E. coli, transfected with a vector encoding urocortin II protein of SEQ ID NO: 11.

Isfort et al. document describes urocortin II of SEQ ID NO: 43, which is 100% identical to the instant SEQ ID NO: 11, expressed in Mus Muscularis. Isfort et al. do not expressly disclose transfection of E. coli cells with a vector comprising DNA encoding urocortin II. However, Isfort et al. disclose plurality of other different species, which are commonly used as host cells to express recombinant DNA. At the time the invention was made, it would have been prima facie obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to modify the disclosure of Isfort et al. and propagate the DNA encoding urocortin II in any suitable host cell, such as E. coli, for example. One of ordinary skill in the art would have been motivated to do this because E. coli is the most commonly used bacterial host of choice for the propagation of recombinant nucleic acids, see section [0094], for example.
